

REFERENCES

- A guide to the design of pavements, (1970). Transport & Road Research Laboratory UK.
- Asphalt Mixes: Design, Testing and Evaluation. (1991).
Transportation Research Board, National Research Council,
Washington, D.C.
- Asphalt paving manual (1972). Asphalt Institute Maryland USA.
- B.S. 3690 part 3 (1989). The British Standard Institute.
- Bituminous construction handbook (1972). Barber Green Co Ltd. U.K.
- Bitumen in road surfacing (1969). Shell International Petroleum Co Ltd., London.
- Bituminous materials (1972). Shell International Petroleum Co Ltd., London
- Bituminous materials in road construction (1980). Transport and Road Research Laboratory UK.
- Brien, D., and Jackson, G.P. (1962). Asphaltic Concrete. Shell International Petroleum Co Ltd, London.
- British Aggregate construction materials, (1990). Transport & Road Research Laboratory UK. University of Moratuwa, Sri Lanka lib.mrt.ac.lk
- Flaherty, C.A. O', ( 1976 ), Highway engineering volume 2.
- Highway Research Board bulletin 105, (1985). National Academy of Science & National Research Council USA.
- Ishikawa, K. (1979). Guide to quality control.
- Kume, H. (1990). Statistical methods for quality improvement.
- Mix design methods for asphalt concrete and other hot mix types (1986). The Asphalt Institute Maryland USA.
- Prediction of pavement performance and the design of overlays (1976). Transport and Road Research Laboratory report 833.
- Shell Bitumen handbook (1972). Shell Petroleum Co Ltd., USA.
- Standard specifications for construction and maintenance of roads and bridges (1989). Road Development Authority of Sri Lanka.
- The asphalt handbook (1989). Asphalt Institute Maryland USA, Manual series no 4 (MS- 4).
- Wahhab, H. Al- Abdul, & Khan, Z.A., (1991). Evaluation of Marshall & Hveem mix design procedures for local use, Transportation research record No 1317. National Research Council USA.