

BIBLIOGRAPHY

Thomas, Terry and McGeever, Ben. "Underground storage of rain water for domestic use."
Working paper No. 49 : Development technology unit (DTU), Department of Engineering, University of Warwick, July 1997.

Ranjendram, I. "Some aspects in the analysis of 'Intze' type water tanks." Transactions of the Institute of Engineers, Ceylon, pg 53-80

Skinner, Brain and Shaw, Rod. "Buried and semi-submerged water tanks." Technical brief:
Water and environmental health at London and Loughborough (WELL).

Neil Herath (1995), Construction of wire-reinforced-cement mortar tanks, Community water supply and sanitary project, Battaramulla, Sri Lanka.

V.A.S.P.Nanayakkara (2001),  Low cost underground water tanks, M.Sc. Thesis,
Department of Civil Engineering, University of Moratuwa

P.C.Sharma and V.S.Gopalaratnam (1980), Ferro cement water tank, International Ferro cement information center.

Baker, E. H., Kovalevsky, L and Rish, F. L. Structural analysis of shells. United states of America: Halliday Lithograph Corporation, 1972.

Kumar , Kunnath Sashi. "FC TANK : An interactive Microcomputer Program for the Analysis and Design of Ferrocement Storage Tanks." Asian institute of technology, Bangkok, Thailand : International ferrocement information center, May 1992.

Rees, Dai. "Partially below ground tank for rainwater storage." DTU Technical release TR-
RWH 01 ; Development technology unit (DTU), Department of Engineering, University of Warwick, November 2000.